DIRECTOR'S NOTE

Rey Shankar — Student Director

Rey is incredibly thankful to be the student director for The Ash Girl and for the opportunity to work with an amazing cast and crew for this production. They have previously starred in "The Theory of Relativity", in which they got their first opportunity to direct as assistant director for the show. They would like to give special thanks to Ms. Bossardet for helping foster their growth over the past four years and giving them this chance to utilize their creativity to bring this show to life!

A Note From the Director

Most of us grew up with the classic story of "Cinderella"; poor girl lives with her stepfamily, there are singing mice, a shoe, and (most importantly of all) the happily ever after. Needless to say, the Disney movie that popularized the story took some creative liberties to make the original Grimm story more suitable for children. The Brothers Grimm, writers of the original "Cinderella", filled the story with gory details of death and revenge. "The Ash Girl" revisits this same story but combines the powerful message of hope with the darker thematic elements that provide complexity to all the characters.

Our Cinderella character, rudely nicknamed Ash Girl by her stepsisters, lives a desolate life after her father left her. One day, a visiting prince holds a ball, sparking Ash Girl's transformation and journey to find herself. On top of the traditional cast of characters, stepsisters, the stepmother, the fairy, this play includes the shadows lurking in the background. The monstrous sins, each characterized by one of the Seven Deadly Sins, play the puppet-masters in every scene, pulling the characters into their darkness. The addition of a new set of antagonistic characters not only adds new depth to the heroine and her struggles but also humanizes the traditional villains in the story. "The Ash Girl" paints this tale as old as time using new colors, allowing this retelling to show the story like it never has been before.

I hope you walk out of this performance feeling something. Whether it is simply being entertained or inspired by the message in the story, my intention with this performance is to reach every audience member in some way. As a senior in high school, this 12-year chapter of my life is coming to an end. The future is a blank canvas, waiting for me to make a mark. I am incredibly grateful to have this opportunity before I leave, and, hopefully, the many students who come will build a home on this stage, just as I have.
